

R. Edwin Allday

Since 1990, Ed Allday has served as counsel and staff to a wide array of nonprofit enterprises, providing guidance on capital and annual campaign planning and management, public/private partnership development and management, and organizational transformation. During this time he has served as an independent consultant, as Director of External Relations for Amigos de las Americas and as Senior Consultant with The Dini Partners, all in Houston Texas. Previously, he served in senior management positions for The American Leadership Forum, a national, chapter-based nonprofit organization and he was the General Manager of a private investment business.

In addition to his professional experience, Mr. Allday's direct personal experience with nonprofits is extensive having served in volunteer leadership positions of more than 20 nonprofit organizations. Currently, these include the American Leadership Forum, Buffalo Bayou Partnership, City Hall Fellows, Conference of Southwest Foundations, The Fondren Foundation, The Health Museum, and Holocaust Museum Houston.

Ed spends his free time with his wife and two sons, Francey, Gene and Blake, and enjoys all manner of outdoor activities including hiking, mountain climbing, skiing, biking, bird watching and travel.
